

EASTER OBSERVANCE IN LOCAL CHURCHES

The Resurrection Celebrated
With Joyous Musical and Special Services.

Catholic and Protestant Congregations Unite in Elaborate Programs.

Easter, the most joyous season of the year, will be universally celebrated today. Special services, religious and musical, have been arranged in all the Protestant and Catholic churches, and hymns of praise and rejoicing will go forth this morning.

No feast in the church is regarded as so much important as Easter. It commemorates the resurrection of Christ, through which humanity was redeemed and the hope of everlasting happiness restored to the faithful.

Great changes have come in the last year to the modest little Dutch Reformed Church on the corner of Fifteenth and O Streets, which sprang into unexpected prominence when President Roosevelt began to attend services there. A new and stately edifice now stands on the ground adjoining the small chapel, where the Rev. John M. Schick preached to a small congregation before the place of worship became the President's church. The new building, however, will not be ready for occupancy for some time.

Mr. Schick's sermon for Easter Sunday will be taken from the text found in the Gospel of St. Mark, xvi:3: "Who shall roll away the stone from the door of the sepulcher?" The music of the choir will be in a strain of triumphant praise, and will be rendered by the quartet—Miss Mary Levers, soprano; Miss Cheonoweth, alto; N. P. Meyer, tenor; and James Schick, a son of the clergyman, bass.

At St. John's.

The Easter services at historic old St. John's are always of supreme interest to residents and strangers alike, and hundreds are turned away from the church door on these festivals. St. John's Church is one of the oldest churches in America. It was built in 1812 and planned by the architect of the United States Capitol, Benjamin Latrobe, of Baltimore.

Its title, "The President's church," was derived in this way: Before the church was consecrated or any pews sold, a committee from the vestry was instructed to make the offer of a pew to President James Madison. He accepted, and thereafter occupied the pew (38) even more than his own in Christ Church. Since that time the custom of reserving a pew was continued, and a number of the Presidents have worshipped there. Now it is the church of the President's wife, and since her return from her trip down the Chesapeake with her children Mrs. Roosevelt has been attending the daily services at St. John's.

Dr. Smith's Text.

Dr. Roland Cotton Smith's text at the Easter service will be "He that loveth his life for My sake shall find it again." The assistant ministers at St. John's are Revs. Frank H. Bigelow and Edward S. Dunlap. H. H. Freeman is the organist and choirmaster. The order of services will be holy communion at 7:30 a. m., morning prayer and holy communion and sermon at 11 o'clock, choral evensong and children's carol service at 4:15.

By a rather singular coincidence the clergymen of the three leading Episcopal churches of the Capital are named Smith. Rev. Dr. Ernest Smith, rector of St. Thomas, as is well known, came here from St. Michael and All Angels, Baltimore.

The choir of St. Thomas, which is vested, consists of men and women, some of them being well-known local singers. They are under the direction of Edmund A. Varela, choirmaster.

The other leading Episcopal Church, St. Margaret's, has for its rector Rev. Herbert Scott Smith. St. Margaret's is as yet in its infancy, so to speak. It is situated on Connecticut Avenue extended.

The Pro-Cathedral.

As important as any is the Church of the Ascension, the Pro-Cathedral of Washington, the church of Bishop Salter. This church is a favorite one with the Southern residents of the Capital.

St. Matthew's Church, on Rhode Island Avenue, near Connecticut Avenue, has long been recognized as a leading Roman Catholic Church of the Capital. This fine edifice has been enlarged on a magnificent scale during the last year. Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 11 o'clock Sunday. The full choir, under the direction of Miss Jeanne Giennan, will give an elaborate program.

Other important Catholic churches of the northwest include St. Patrick's, Tenth and G Streets. The parish was founded in 1794, and is one of the oldest in the country. The Rev. Dr. D. J. Stafford is pastor of this church, with the Rev. Thomas Dolan as assistant.

St. Paul's, at the corner of V and Fifteenth Streets, was founded in the latter eighties. The Rev. James Mackin is pastor, with the Rev. James Krug assistant.

The Church of the Covenant, Connecticut Avenue and N Street, is one of the leading churches of the Capital. It is Presbyterian, and the Rev. Toulus S. Smith is the pastor. The Easter service will be on the same elaborate scale as the church has in former years. Those New York Avenue Presbyterian N. under the ministry of Dr. Walradcliffe, also will be elaborate.

SOIL SURVEY WORK FOR THE PAST YEAR

More Than Eleven Million Acres
Mapped by the Bureau.

The annual report of the field operations of the Bureau of Soils, of the Department of Agriculture, for 1935, containing the results of the soil survey work of the bureau for the calendar year, has just been completed and is now in press. It will not, however, be available for distribution before October next, owing to the length of time necessary to lithograph the accompanying maps. It will be issued in two parts, one containing forty-four lithograph soil maps drawn on a scale of one mile to the inch, covering each of the areas surveyed, indicating in colors the location and extent of the various soil types, and in addition, in Western areas, the presence and amount of alkali existing. The other part, embracing about 800 pages, illustrated, contains the reports of assistants in charge of surveys.

During the season there were surveyed and mapped 17,911 square miles, or 11,465,949 acres, covering 32 areas in 25 States and Territories and in Porto Rico. The area previously surveyed by the bureau was 15,871 square miles, making a total to date of 33,787 square miles, or 21,320,899 acres.

The total cost of the work, including transportation, salaries, subsistence, supplies, inspection, preparation of reports, etc., amounts to an average of $2.58 per square mile, or about 33 cents per acre. During the current year the number of soil survey parties has been increased to 20, which it is expected will make surveys of about 50 areas in 32 States and Territories.

TREASURY STATEMENT.

The weekly statement of United States bonds held in trust for national banks shows there is deposited in the United States Treasury $344,346,970 to secure circulation, and to secure public moneys $143,004,970 in Washington and $19,410,000 in New York.

National bank notes outstanding on April 11 amounted to $385,275,053. The total bank notes issued in the past week were $5,915,350 and those destroyed, $3,482,488.

Gold coin and bullion deposited in the United States Treasury amounts to $641,243,270.04, the high-water mark for gold deposits in all treasuries of the world.

"MAIL" DENIES STORY.

BIRMINGHAM, England, April 11.—The "Mail" today prints an authorized denial of the report that Colonial Secretary Chamberlain will visit America in the autumn.

A FRIEND'S RECOLLECTION OF A NOTABLE CHARACTER

To the Editor of The Washington Times:

Each day brings to us, in addition to its own events and incidents, memories of delightful happenings and recollections tinged with sadness, or sorrowful occurrences. The first is the training school of our lighter nature, where it is fitted to enter the hall of serious thought into which our souls should go with zeal and intelligent appreciation to seek the proper interpretation of life and the meaning of death.

My recollection today is of my very good friend, the late Mrs. Eugenia Phillips, then whom no nobler subject could have been chosen to verify the beautiful expression, "The purer the soul is here, the fitter it is for heaven." She died one year ago, on the first day of the present month, at the advanced age of eighty-two years, finishing a life in which she contributed in the happy manner for which she was peculiarly fitted to the happiness, comfort, and pleasure of contemporaries and posterities in two centuries much that should be talked about, more than I could write about, and all of which should be appreciated.

Mrs. Phillips was actuated by the highest ideals in all her relationships in life. The woman arose so clearly above her prejudices and soared to such a lofty height in thought and action that those who did not understand such a position were astounded. But to the appreciative mind, she furnished food for healthful thought and conduct.

This brilliant and remarkable character was an aristocrat, not an autocrat. She was proud, but arrogance never found lodgment in her mind or thought. Whether in the whirl of social activities or surrounded by the comforts of her home, her gracious and charming manners, which made every one feel easy and comfortable in her society, proved the attractive person which she was. Her presence gave to the atmosphere that she occupied a sweetness and freshness which attracted everybody and made its envelopment pleasant and delightful.

In religion, Mrs. Phillips did not practice after the prescribed form of any sect or denomination, but upon the broad principle of the brotherhood of man, which included all. Her heart was so large that it furnished a haven for all, and so small that it uselessly took place beside one which needed the warmth of hers to relieve its anguish and soothe its disappointment.

In conviction, was right and proper, after satisfying herself that her position, which was always assumed after having viewed conditions through the veil of her own pure and transparent motive, which reflected so brilliantly in her decision that many have been guided right by its illumination. She was firm, but never oppressive, although perhaps her candor and earnestness may have at times been mistaken for it.

The legacy which this cultured and attractive lady has left her children and friends cannot be valued by the commodities of trade, and is an inheritance which cannot be estimated by comparison with great riches.

I had the honor and good fortune to enjoy for fifteen years her friendship, and the memory of her will always live in my mind and thought. W. S. F.

TO DISCUSS GRIEVANCES.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., April 11.—President Mitchell, of the Mine Workers, this afternoon sent a telegram to District President Nichols of this district, saying it would be impossible for him to reach here next Wednesday, as he had anticipated. He will now not arrive before Monday, April 29. Upon his arrival a joint meeting of the district board will be held in Scranton, and the grievances now exciting the miners will be discussed.

ALEXANDRIA NEWS NOTES.

Battle of the Pitchers.

ALEXANDRIA, Va., April 11.—An interesting game of baseball was played on the grounds of the Episcopal High School near this city this evening between a nine from that school, and one from the Baltimore City College. The game, which was really a battle between pitchers, resulted in a score of 5 to 0 in favor of the Episcopal High School. The batters for the Baltimore City College were Bowers and King, and for the High School, Temple and Zimmer. The Baltimore City College made 3 hits, 8 errors, and no runs, and the High School made 5 runs, 4 hits, and no errors. Fifteen men were struck out by the High School pitcher, and fourteen men batted the wind, when the ball was delivered by the Baltimore City College pitcher. The umpire was Mr. Fontain, of the High School.

Personals.

Laura Cecelia Harlow is spending the Easter holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Harlow in this city.

Mrs. William G. Carr and children, of East Capitol Street, Washington, are visiting relatives in Washington Street, this city.

Harry B. Caton spent today in Baltimore.

Harry Burke and Virginia Burke are in Boston, Mass., where they have gone to witness the marriage of their brother, Edmund J. Burke, to Gertrude Lucy Story, of that city, which will be celebrated on Monday next.

Mrs. J. H. Watkins and Bettie Watkins are in Lynchburg, Va., visiting relatives.

The Carlyle House.

The Society for the Restoration of Historic Alexandria has now been in possession of the historic Carlyle House over ten days. The managers of the society are employing workmen to save the house from further dilapidation and to make some repairs. The entry to the building on the west has been renewed and made safe, and the tumbled walls of the basement in front of the porch on the west side will be rebuilt next week and the entrances all made safe if not slightly.

Special Grand Jury Term.

The corporation court, Judge L. C. Barley, will open on Monday morning next a special grand jury term for the disposition of the cases of prisoners now detained in the Alexandria jail or out on bail. Commonwealth's Attorney S. G. Brent will present the indictments to the grand jury, which will consist of John T. Boyd, carpenter, of 457 Queen Street; William H. Helmutz, of the firm of Helmutz Bros., butchers, of 108 North Alfred Street; John T. Harrison, foreman, of 319 North Columbus Street; Frank S. Harper, wholesale grocer at the corner of King and Fairfax Streets; Francis F. Marbury, manager Capital City Telephone Company, of 413 Prince Street; Thomas Perry, commission merchant, King Street; Joseph F. Rodgers, contractor, of 222 South Fairfax Street; Edgar Wardfield, Jr., druggist, at the corner of Prince and Fairfax Streets. The grand jury will be called upon to consider the cases of Perry Shields, a negro, charged with alleged housebreaking; Harry Nicholson, charged with alleged assault and cutting of Otto Voegelsgang; Benjamin Hughes and John Dogans, negroes, com-

SAYS TEACHER'S HUG DISLOCATED HER SHOULDER

PANA, Ill., April 11.—In the circuit court here Stella Nichols, of Panama, is trying to convince a jury that a teacher's hug dislocated her shoulder. She is suing E. F. Colwell, a school teacher, for $2,500, alleging because of a hug he gave her against her will her shoulder was thrown out of place, permanently injuring her.

The Smart and Exclusive in Footwear.

It is a well-established fact that there are no shoes which possess the characteristics of Rich's footwear—that distinctiveness of style and smart elegance demanded by the world of fashion.

Every style here has the certain charm of individuality—a point missing from the ordinary footwear seen elsewhere. Ours are the newest and smartest creations of the world's best shoemakers—the artists create all shoe fashions.

New Oxford and street shoes for spring and summer wear are ready—a showing by far the best and most comprehensive to be found anywhere in America, and this country leads the world.

The greatest variety of footwear for Easter brides, for the trousseau, as well as for traveling and all dress wear. What other store renders such admirable service?

Special mention is made of the new Wellington boot and army full dress shoes, of patent leather.

The regulation styles for army officers—authoritative and smart.

We are also showing the newest flat crooked lasts in men's shoes, of black calf and patent leather.

Tan shoes are the latest vogue for this season—and here is shown every new and correct style—the dead flat lasts which are so stylish.

We devote an entire floor to Children's Footwear, showing a stock by far the greatest and best seen in Washington. New styles in Children's Footwear for May Bells and Parties—as elegant and smart as the "grown ups."
